LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—Predicting the greatest war the world has ever known between Japan and Sovietism. Rev. William C. Isett, president of the Los Angeles China club last night thrilled members of the Association of the Army at the City club here with his personal viewpoint of chaotic conditions in the orient.

"Imperialism, as represented by Japan, is to stand to death in its fight against communism," the speaker said. "The world is dealing with a communistic force in China. Japan is the last imperialistic government in the world. Japan fears the organization of any republic in China. It will call on the United States for help, and if I am not mistaken, America will join with England in supporting China."

It must be understood that the assertions made by the speaker were not jingoistic. He praised President Coolidge for his efforts to squelch propaganda causing animosity between Japanese and Americans. He praised the efforts of the Japanese statesmen to encourage cordial relations. And he said any talk or any thought of war with Japan is unnecessary, because Japan has no interest in doing more than protecting her monarchial form of government. Some interesting facts given by Mr. Isett, were:

Petition In Circulation and Indications Point to Favorable Action

The name of Harry G. MacBain, prominent merchant and director of the Chamber of Commerce, will be presented by friends for appointment to the City Council within a few days, it became known today. It was at the same time indicated on good authority that the council will act favorably upon the request at its meeting next Friday morning.

The name of Mr. MacBain became prominently linked with the council position when a petition seeking his appointment was circulated today by a number of friends, most of them Glendale merchants, who are advocating a business man on the council to take the place of the late Asa Hall, deceased.

Many Sign Petition

A long list of signers have already attached their names to the petition, it was stated. Civic organizations in a number of instances were said to be favorable to the appointment of Mr. MacBain, who is a leading member of the Kiwanis club, in addition to being a Chamber of Commerce director.

Though it was understood they were in favor of the appointment of Mr. MacBain, city councilmen had nothing to say on the subject when questioned. It was not even definitely stated that an appointment was to be made at the meeting next Friday.

A movement to secure the naming of Mr. MacBain was started some days ago, it was said, and took on serious proportions when

The farmers' council had asked Stone to enlist himself in the fight against annulling the decree.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Farmers of the Imperial valley in California today, through Will C. Fawcett of El Centro, Cal., appealed to Secretary of War Weeks, as chairman of the water power board, to push plans for affording them protection against floods.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—President Coolidge gave a considerable part of his day to the discussion of agriculture.

Judge R. W. Bingham of Louisville, chairman of the national council of the Co-operative Marketing associations of America, had a long conference with the president followed by another between Mr. Coolidge and A. C. Hardison of Santa Paula, Cal., president of the California Farm Bureau, and R. N. Williams president of the American Co-operative Society of California, the latter two having been granted an engagement at the request of Gray Silver, the head of the American Farm Bureau.

Judge Bingham's visit had nothing to do with that of the other two co-operative farm leaders, his discussion covering mainly the important conference that is to be held on January 5 of all the principal co-operative organizations in the farm world. Judge Bingham has associated with him on the national council such men as Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, Aaron Sapiro of California, Dan Wallace of St. Paul, Minn., and Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

This group represents a membership of more than 200,000 farmers who are actively engaged in co-operative marketing. It is

VISIONS NATION BIG WORKSHOP

Head of U. S. Steel Corporation Declares Six Important Factors Cause Him To Offer Most Optimistic Views

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The United States will be the real workshop of the world, said Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, in outlining for International News Service today the reasons he looks for a national and general prosperity throughout the United States such as we have not witnessed for sixty years.

Schwab bases his optimistic views on six important factors: High wages, good farm prices, economy in production of manufactured articles, the recovery of the railroads, high volume of building and a government on safe and sane lines.

"As reasons for prosperity next year," said Schwab, "we have:

"1—High wages for labor. As a whole, wages were maintained at constant levels last summer and fall even in the face of considerable reduced production; with rates of production increasing, high wages will give a strong underlying buying power.

Farmers' Purchasing Power Greater

"2—Good farm prices. The farmer's dollar has been low in purchasing power for some time. Increasing prices for farm products will mean good business for those industries which sell directly or indirectly to our great farm population.

"3—Manufacturers have spent the last two or three years studying their costs of production with a view of enabling the consumer to buy at the lowest possible prices. Unnecessary costs are being eliminated, methods of distribution improved. With even fair operations, manufacturers should show fair profits on their investments.

"4—The railroads are recovering from the unusual stress put on them during and after the war. Operating ratios are again in proper relation to income. The railroads are putting larger expenditures into upkeep which means a demand for a wide range of manufactured products.

More Confidence In Rail Management

"I think the public is beginning to have more confidence in the management of the railroads. Certainly the railroads are providing a service which deserves the support of every man and wage earner in the country.

"5—Experts predict that the total volume of building will continue at somewhere near its present level and that automobile production will be equal to, if not beyond the very large figures of 1924.

"6—The American people showed by their vote in the November election that they were in favor of government along safe and sane channels that have been tried by time and found true. This edict of the people has given both confidence and impetus to business men all over the country to go ahead with production and normal expansion."

National Prosperity and Good Times

"With such a wide diversification of favorable business signs," Schwab continued, "the expectations for the coming year speak for themselves. A business structure built on activity in every industry means national prosperity and good times.

"The natural resources of the United States are incomparably greater than of those of any country in the world. God has endowed us with a patriotic people that will make use of these resources. The questions of the war have been forgotten. Aristocracy today is not made up of men of wealth, birth or position. The real aristocrat is the man who does something good for himself."

U. S. Conflict With Japan Unlikely, Says Judge Gary

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—"Peace and friendship," rather than "jealousy and strife" should be the sentiment of America toward Japan, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, declared in an interview here today.

"Secretary of State Hughes should be commended for the expression he voiced on the coming to this country of the new Japanese ambassador, Matsudaira," Gary said.

There are no war clouds on the horizon of the Far East, Judge Gary said, and continued:

"Statements of persons in America that a conflict with Japan is to come are not symptomatic of the general opinion in the United States.

"Japan is adhering to its disarmament pledge and beneath all this talk of jingoism a firm friendship exists between the two nations."

The foreign relations of the United States are being ably handled by President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes, he said. He characterized them as "men of high calibre."

"The friendly comment of Secretary Hughes on Ambassador Matsudaira is to my mind a reflection of the friendly sentiment of the American people generally," he asserted.

Judge Gary declared that there should be "an even greater bond of mutual interest between Japan and America for, through such alliance, the peace and stability of the world would be advanced.

"There need be no evasion of our rights and I am in perfect sympathy with frank and free diplomacy. Japan expects that of us and we should, in turn, expect Japan to maintain a similar attitude. Such frankness brings only admiration on both sides."

OLDTIME COLD TAKES HOLD OF TEXAS

Missouri, Oklahoma and Entire Southwest Is Hit by Blizzard

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 20.—With five below zero temperatures again prevailing today, the southwest shivered hopefully following the promise of the United States weather bureau that the mercury will rise to 15 above. The old-fashioned blizzard which has gripped Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and other states of the southwest for the past two days was moving eastward today, leaving a trail of demoralized transportation and wire communication in its wake. St. Louis was the worst isolated of large cities today. Only two feeble telegraph wires remained open into that city, one from here and another from Memphis.

Telegraph and telephone companies in Oklahoma estimated that more than one thousand poles were down with 135 cities and towns completely isolated. Seven hundred poles were reported down in Missouri between Bowling Green and Troy by the Western Union Telegraph company.

Enid, Okla., was badly hit by the cold wave when a gas main broke with the mercury three below zero, leaving hundreds of families without heat.

Three deaths were reported in Oklahoma. L. F. Pennock, 66, died in an Enid hospital following hours of exposure. A mother and her baby daughter were reported burned to death in a hotel fire in Cardin, starting from an overheated gas stove.

Lawton, Okla., reported the coldest weather in seven years—2 below zero. Only one telegraph wire was open into the town. Unprotected livestock was reported suffering greatly.

With the exception of its radio broadcasting station, WOS, and hundreds of amateur receiving stations, Jefferson City, Mo., was completely isolated. Only one train from St. Louis has arrived there in the past twenty-four hours.

In Kansas City one death due to the storm resulted when Harold L. Stevens, 38, an electric light lineman, fell to his death when a pole snapped.

Dallas, Texas, was reported shivering as a result of the breaking late yesterday of the principal pipe line. The story of the city's plight was broadcast by a radio station.

Four lost railroad trains en route from St. Louis to Kansas City were located early today by radio. One was the Rock Island's Colorado Express due here yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock When it was still missing last night, rumors of a wreck were circulated.

CLUB WOMEN PLAN TO HOLD FIELD DAY

Tournament to Be Held Next Year; Basketball Team Is Contemplated

Plans for field days and tournaments to be staged at the close of the year by the various sections of the Women's Athletic club were discussed yesterday afternoon at the monthly business meeting, held at the Harriett Mae Tea room. Mrs. J. H. Toal, president, presided.

Several applications for membership were reported, bringing the total membership of the club up to approximately 150. Members decided that points of merit would be given for every accomplishment acquired by members in each section of the club, beginning January 1, 1925. It was decided that cups and prizes would be awarded to the winners in the tournaments, and the members are looking forward with interest to these events.

Plan Field Days

The field days will probably be held late in the spring or summer of next year, according to the present plans. Dr. Harriett B. Farnham, chairman of calisthenics, reported on the plans for organization of a basketball team, and practice for basketball will be started in the near future. A large number have signified their intention of joining the team, and announcement will be made later in regard to the exact date of meeting.

Members of the gymnasium class are planning to meet at the Harvard High school on Monday night, December 29, and it is probable that basketball practice will start at that time.

Members of the gymnasium will leave the Harvard High school Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will motor from there to the cabin of Mrs. Virginia Farr, at Tujunga, from where they plan to hike to the top of Mt. McGroarty. After the hike they will return to the Farr cabin, where a supper will be served. Transportation will be provided for all planning to take the hike. After the business meeting had adjourned a social time was enjoyed, and cake and tea were served as refreshments.

Members of the post are asked to attend the services being given tomorrow night at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Eighth and Hope streets, Los Angeles, in honor of Legion men. The colors of the local post will be present, it was announced.

W. H. Richards, chairman of the post's committee on the float to be entered in the Tournament of Roses contest, announced that work was progressing on the float. All work is being done in secret, he said, and no person other than workmen will be admitted to the building where the construction is under way. This move is to guard against premature announcements and rival action, he said.

Members of the post who can assist in the transportation of more than 400 baskets to the general hospital at Sawtelle are asked to meet at the post headquarters, with their automobiles, at 1 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The post is co-operating with the auxiliary in dispensing Christmas cheer to the disabled veterans.

WINTER SPORT IS ENJOYED BY SCOUTS

Boys Find Plenty of Snow Around Camps During Three-Day Outing

Trudging through a snowstorm and snowballing and tobogganning in the mountains near Switzer's and Opid's camps were features of the three-day holiday outing ending last night when forty-three Boy Scouts and leaders of Verdugo Hills council returned to Glendale.

In a light falling rain the boys, with Harvey R. Cheesman, scout executive, left Glendale Wednesday morning. They motored to Devil's Gate dam and then hiked up the Arroyo Seco. It wasn't long till they encountered snow falling and trudged along in it until they reached Switzer's camp at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Warm cabins were provided, eighteen boys to a cabin. Good beds and plenty of bedding were added comforts. At night campfire songs, stories and stunts were given in the social hall. The next morning after breakfast the hike was resumed on up the Arroyo.

Find Plenty Snow

"It had cleared off during the night, and the snow blanket covering the pine trees and mountains presented a picture of fairyland," said Mr. Cheesman. When the divide was reached a snowball fight was enjoyed. Upon reaching Opid's camp the boys found Mr. Opid had anticipated their arrival by making sleds for their sport. There they found five inches of snow. Again a campfire was enjoyed in the social hall, where Mr. Opid told stories of the mountains and of killing seven mountain lions.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

WE WILL NEVER OUTGROW—

The moral standards of the ten commandments.
The political vision of the Constitution of the United States.
The ideals that godly mothers held up for us.
the impulse to worship some form of divinity.
The love of nature until the soul of beauty dies within us.
Our natural conceit without some bitter defeats.

GUARD AMERICAN IDEALS

There may have been a time when the American people were absurdly patriotic, when ideals and principles were worshiped because they were American, whether or not they were worthy. There may still be a few of us who err in this way, but the pendulum has swung too far in the other direction.

There is a large and growing class that takes the attitude that everything that is American should be discredited, who feel that any action taken by our government is an insult to some other nation; that any holding aloof from entanglements in Europe is a slap in the face of European countries; that any co-operation with them is a step toward imperialism; that any movement for defense is preparation for war; and that questions of purely domestic import should be passed upon by the other countries of the world before becoming national laws.

American institutions and ideals are founded on truth and justice and they are deserving of being guarded by those who have benefited by them. The United States has helped in a most practical manner foreign peoples and foreign countries who were in need of help. The American dollar, which the people of Europe scorn us for holding in esteem, is ever welcome in those countries whether it comes in the form of a government loan or from the purses of tourists, whether it is used to feed starving children, buy war materials or build up devastated areas and aid the victims of disaster. America's unofficial aid has done more to cure the ills of Europe than any other agency.

Kathleen Norris in the current issue of Good Housekeeping makes some very pertinent statements in an article entitled, "Some Americans Who Make Me Mad." This article is worth reading. Mrs. Norris says, apropos of America's reputation for being mercenary, "America is the least mercenary nation in the world. Our men work steadily and make money, but they spend it like chaff blown to the four winds. It is the Europeans who are really mercenary, who are really thinking of money all the time. Not only in the hotels, where they multiply their prices by five or ten; not only in the shops, where they increase their prices when they hear our careful French; not only in the streets lined with whining beggars or in the fact that almost any man, driver, conductor, house-servant, clerk will begin to beg in a low undertone the instant he gets a chance, but in the 'made' marriages, the careful consideration of a girl's financial position before the lovemaking can begin."

Speaking of the charm and picturesqueness of Europe, Mrs. Norris says, "Countries that have a large class of respectable domestic servants, that have swarming picturesque slums, that can afford to have a human being prettily trailing three geese all day long, countries whose peasants dance for a few cents, hold out the hat and sing for a few more, are countries full of suffering and need. Our small-town folk do not meet the Sunday stream of motors with simple, pretty dances and songs, with extended palms and hats, for excellent reasons. Our 'peasants' are too busy cleaning up the flivver, running the graphophone, going to the movies, eating chocolate sundaes, loafing with a picnic box and all the magazines and papers, high up in the hills."

In concluding her article this writer says: "And, after all, that is the important thing. That England and Europe shall understand America, her surface faults, her great heart, her newness, eagerness, rashness, her failures and her great successes, means more to your children and mine than that they shall intermarry with the bearers of titles. Love them all, but love America first."

CALIFORNIA TOO HOSPITABLE

The San Francisco Chronicle deplores the tendency of California to be over-hospitable in assuming the support of paupers who are not legal residents of the state. In some cases the transportation to our state is paid by the local authorities of the home community, while others wend their way thither by the brake-beam route and some come in Fords. In like manner, local authorities within the state pass on their unwelcome visitors to the next town.

Alien paupers may be deplored, but there is no adequate provision made for dealing with paupers who were born or naturalized in this country. California is the greatest sufferer from indigent visitors, for our mild winter climate is especially attractive to that class. It was recently reported that Los Angeles poor farm authorities received application from a pauper in an eastern state for transference to this state.

In advertising her charms, California should not hold out great inducements to those who are or will become public charges. In many cases men who were able to care for themselves and families in their home communities have come to California with no reserve fund, and being unable to get work at once they have become recipients of charity or else have suffered from want. These are the kind of people who give the state adverse publicity in other sections of the country.

California should look after those who are not able to care for themselves, but there is no reason for this state assuming charge of indigents from all over the country.

OUR LEISURE TIME

The Carnegie corporation has enliste dthe services of a number of prominent educators, artists, authors and others in attempting to solve the problem of what the people are to do with the increasing amount of leisure time that has been brought about by our modern civilization. Meanwhile we are sitting with folded hands, awaiting their decision, anxious to make use of our spare time, but knowing not how to do it. When the verdict comes we will, of course, all hasten to follow their instructions.

We have learned by observation that a great deal of leisure time can be killed by investigating something or somebody, by outlining a course of conduct for someone else or by solving problems that do not concern us in any way. One thing is certain, the members of this commission have a lot of leisure time.

The charlatan who is here today, gone tomorrow, relieves us of all we have—except our infirmities.

If your neighbor has a garden, don't count your chickens until they've scratched.

When speaking contemptuously of spineless things, don't get too near the octopus.

HERE'S HOPING!

The Week of Prayer

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The Week of Prayer is announced by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It will be observed in many foreign countries, from Australia to Uganda, and from Austria to Turkey, as wlel as our own country.

This is not an effort to corner the supernal powers and subject them to the manipulation of a trust. Its aim is rather to direct the minds of all Christian people to a common end for a certain period of time.

Two things are necessary to get anywhere in this world. The first thing is to know what you want and the second thing is to want it hard enough. People who do these two things usually get there. The trouble with most people who do not get there is that they do not do these two things.

There is no doubt that if the Christian people throughout Christendom know what they want and realize it they have taken a long step in advance.

There are some things that Christian people everywhere should want.

First, an utter faith in, and loyalty to, the truth. There should never be any suspicion that the truth is dangerous but there should be an utter reliance upon it.

There should be a common desire for the abatement of national selfishness, of self-righteousness and of suspicion of others. There is no permanent peace that is not based upon loyalty toward one's self and trust in others. Every vicious attempt is made against these two points.

All churches should unite not only in a desire for truth but in an intelligent effort to promote international unity, as in that direction only lies the hope of stopping the enormous crime and waste of war.

All prayer should be made that the rulers of nations should be wise enough to get together for the common good and not to remain apart for the common evil.

Horoscope

Again a doubtful day is foretold by astrologers who read that Jupiter, Mars and Mercury are all in malefic aspect.

As it is fitting to rest in expectation of the holidays, there should be no initiative at this time, for Jupiter and Mars give warning of disappointment and heavy losses.

The President may encounter at this time the first indication of adverse policies in Congress where he will have a new and pertinacious enemy.

The Moon is approaching a favorable aspect with Neptune which gives pleasant forecast for the new year in which general business affairs should prosper.

There is a good aspect today for shopping in which antique or unusual objects are sought.

Mars will probably incline toward irritability and there may be much weariness at this time which should be fairly fortunate for certain kinds of hospitality.

Strong bearish combinations are foreseen among speculators who will find the market exceedingly uncertain, but exciting from this time until the end of the year.

Much agitation regarding taxes will engross attention during the coming year in which there will be financial strain among workers and persons of average means.

Bankers, brokers and lawyers are to be the objects of much unfair criticism in the new year, if the stars are read aright.

Many scandals and newspaper sensations will be recorded in 1925 which may be a time of extraordinary events.

Venus on the meridian at Berlin is said by astrologers to benefit Germany, which will make tremendous progress in the coming year.

Russia continues under a sinister rule of the stars which may result in a manner most unfortunate for the United States.

Persons whose birthdate it is should keep their money sure and beware of life and thieves in the coming year. Business should be conducted carefully.

Children born on this day may be rather indifferent to money-making exactions, but endowed with rare talents. Girls have the augury of happy marriages.

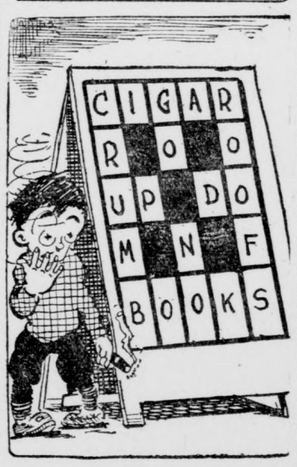
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED



Today's Poem

I SHALL NOT GO BACK

I shall not go back to the place that I love,
I shall never try to repeat the perfect hour;
I know the past is gone, yet it is safe enough
Even to the small blue six-pointed flower.

They say the earth itself in millions of years
Will drift like fine grey ash that the wind has whipped and tossed,
And the blackened sun will grope blindly among the spheres
But I am not afraid that the things I love will be lost.

Who's Who

An ex-editor and a college professor, the latter now governor-elect of that state, will fight it out for the senatorial seat in Connecticut made vacant by the suicide of Frank B. Brandegee. The former editor is Hamilton Holt, internationally known as a league of nations advocate. He formerly edited the New York Independent. His opponent is Hiram Bingham.

Both were nominated at conventions held since the fall elections. Holt is a Democrat and Bingham Republican.

Holt announced that he accepted the nomination without pledges of any kind.

Following graduation at Yale in 1894, Holt went to Columbia university where he specialized in economics and sociology. In 1915 Ursinus college conferred the degree of LL. D. upon him and in 1916 Wooster gave him an Litt. D. degree.

Among the organizations with which Holt is affiliated are the League to Enforce Peace, the Church Peace union, the International Conciliation society, the American Society of International Law, the National Institute of Social Sciences, Friends of Russian Freedom, Japan Society of New York, Italy-American society, the "Committee of 100," the "Committee of 107" and the "Committee of 250" and American Scandinavian Foundation.

Japan decorated Holt with the Order f the Sacred Treasure in 1909, Greece made him an officer of the Royal Order of George the First. France made him an officer of public instruction and Italy conferred upon him membership in the Order of the Crown of Italy.

At one time he toured the country as lecturer for the World Peace Foundation and for the Carnegie Foundation.

In the spring of 1918 Holt visited the allied battle fronts as guest of the British, American, French, Belgian and Italian governments. The following year it devolved upon him to contribute his services as representative of the League to Enforce Peace at the peace conference of Versailles.

The eminent sociologist, who, by the way is in his fifty-third year, is the author of a number of books including "Undistinguished Americans" and "Commercialism and Journalism."

Teachings of Jesus Are Told In Sermon

Evangelist Fred St. Clair, who is conducting a series of revivals at the First Church of the Nazarene, 417 East Acacia avenue, delivered a sermon at the church Thursday night on the subject, "To Hell and Not Back," taking his text from Luke 16:19-31. Rev. St. Clair said, in part:

"This is real and literal, or worse, or Jesus exaggerates the facts, and that would make Him an unsafe teacher. The rich man died suddenly and woke up, amazed, and in Hell. He took his conscience with him. Conscience has a thousand eyes and is as immortal as God. Note that all this is the doctrine of Jesus, and He said, 'A great gulf fixed, an unalterable condition, ergo, forever.' He said never get out. Forever means forever in the Bible. O, the horrors of the word eternal, endless, despair, remorse, anguish. No ray of hope ever enters those dreary regions. It says Judor went to his own place, and every man does.

Dr. Cook of Boston said, 'If I love what God hates, I cannot be in harmony with him both here and herafter.' Sin is endless discord. Last, note the poor rich man awoke to his influence on others, but, alas, too late. Then see how Jesus hits this abominable spiritism a death blow. They will not be persuaded though one went to them from the dead, if they will not heed the Holy Scriptures."

Burbank's Tent Shows Do Capacity Business

Capacity houses have been greeting the appearance of the stock company at the Burbank tent theatre, opposite the Moreland truck factory, in "Don't Lie to Your Wife," a comedy full of comic situations and side-splitting humor.

The Burbank players now are under the management of J. B. Brown and W. E. DeLand. Mr. Brown is well known in Glendale and Mr. DeLand is a showman of many years' experience who promises San Fernando residents the best productions obtainable. More stoves have been added to the tent and the eight-piece girl orchestra is proving a drawing card.

Xmas Window Blaze Is Started by Cigarette

Gaston Van, a window trimmer, was overcome by smoke at 7:45 o'clock last night, while decorating a window at the D. L. Gregg Co., hardware merchants, 107 North Brand boulevard. The blaze is said to have started when a cigarette dropped into the cotton used to produce snow effect. Police department was notified but no alarm sent to fire department. Mr. Van was revived. A bucket of water extinguished the blaze. The only damage done, Mr. Gregg reported, was to Christmas articles in the window.

Firemen Dance Tonight In Verdugo City Hall

The Verdugo City auditorium will be the scene of the firemen's ball tonight, under the auspices of the La Crescenta valley unit of the Angeles Forest Protective association. Leo Lang, deputy fire warden, is in charge.

The proceeds will go toward buying equipment for the volunteers from the district. Floyd's orchestra, of Glendale, will furnish the music. The ball will be one of the biggest affairs of its kind in the valley, and couples are expected from Tujunga, Sunland and surrounding points. The public is invited.

Many are familiar with the recent work of the Angeles Forest Protective association in this vicinity, under Chief P. J. Hayselden, and Mr. Lang said a big turnout will be concrete evidence that the public appreciates the protection it had during the dry summer from the ravages of hill fires.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Yesterday we reviewed each member of the famous food sextet (protein carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, mineral elements, water). Now we must talk about the amount of food needed daily.

The Amount of Food Needed Per Day

The daily amount of food needed by a child (or adult) depends upon age, size, weight, activity, temperament, season and, possibly, sex. The unit we use for measurement is the calorie, and it has been determined by many experiments how many are needed daily per pound of body weight for all ages. Now let us discuss each factor a little.

Age

The most rapidly growing period of life is the first year, when the infant usually doubles its birth weight by the fifth month and trebles it at the end of the year. So during this period, more calories of food per pound of body weight are needed than at any other period.

At puberty, the beginning of adult life, and three or four years after puberty (adolescence) there is also a very rapid growth, and the food intake at this period must be very large to cover the needs. How many times have you said that your boys and girls at these ages were eating you out of house and home? You will be comforted to know that this is not abnormal; it really represents a physiological need during this very active growing period of adolescence.

Needless to say, children will overeat for their needs at times, especially of foods they like—particularly if they are rapid eaters and do not masticate their food sufficiently—and they suffer for it. This, of course, should be discouraged. If their enormous appetites lead to overweight, you can be sure that they are overeating, and this also must be discouraged. It rarely happens that overeating in general tends to underweight so you don't need to worry about that.

Size

The larger the size, the more food needed. Do not confuse size with overweight, for the rule for overweight is just the reverse. By size we mean the general frame. A large-sized baby will need more than a smaller-frame baby of the same age. The same principle applies to children and adults.

Weight

The normal baby the first year will require on an average of 45 calories per pound per day. If it is underweight, it will require from 50 to 70 calories per pound per day, and if it is overweight, it will require as low as 40 calories per pound. This same principle of fewer calories per pound for overweight and more per pound for underweight applies throughout infancy, childhood and adult years.

Activity

Obviously the very active infant, child, or adult needs more food to keep well and at normal weight than the inactive, just as an auto which is being run all day long will need to have its gas tank refilled oftener than one not run so long.

Temperament

The temperament often decides the activity, so these are bound together more or less. A phlegmatic, slow-moving child or adult will need much less food than the quick-moving, superactive nervous type.

Season

In winter and cold climates more food is needed than in summer because there is an increased rate of oxidation in the body in response to the cold.

Sex

Boys the same age and weight as girls usually eat more; this is probably because they are more active.

Tuberculosis

We have an article on tuberculosis which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. Are you buying your share of Christmas seals to help eradicate this disease?

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

A CHAT FOR SMOKERS

Cigarette smoking being the rule, rather than the exception, among women these days I feel that a special chat should be devoted to the smoker. I have never written one before, and perhaps this is a waste of time now. If smoking made her less beautiful, would a woman smoke? Probably not, therefore. I'm sure it's a waste of time. However, cigarettes do stain the fingers an ugly yellow, and their odor lingers on one's breath. You may not mind that, but you are sure to possess some disapproving aunt Jane (who remembers the days when men smoked in a special smoking room, in special smoking jackets, at special hours so that neither their presence nor clothes would offend "the ladies") and you won't want to annoy her.

Cold cream on the yellowed finger at night, and lemon juice or peroxide next day is about the best remedy I know. If the stain is bad, rub with pumice stone, then with cream.

To remove the odor from your breath, you will have to wash out your mouth with some good antiseptic preparation and gargle your throat with it too. You should brush your teeth to be certain all odor goes, and it's not a bad idea to eat clove or strong peppermint candy afterwards.

"A fragrance of absolute purity should be exhaled from a woman's person," says a beauty book of mine printed twenty-five years ago. And goes on: "That pretty, unfeminine vice of cigarette smoking, usually indulged in as an affection (thus) of smartness, is an unpardonable practice . . . the woman is for the time, out of focus and sympathy with the best, noblest and most truly refined qualities which are the rightful heritage of her sex. She has lost the point of view to which she was born." And much more. So consider that when next you ask casually at the store for a packet of cigarettes!

No, I didn't write the book, and I have no views, for or against smoking. I only say, don't let it ruin your nerves, your breath or your pretty finger tips.

Georgianna—The mixture of rose water and glycerine is used to keep the hands soft. It has no special merit for the complexion.

Madelaine D. C.—A cold shower every day followed by a brisk rubbing from a coarse towel will help you tone the skin during the period of reduction. If you reduce at the rate of five pounds each month, taking almost a year to rid yourself of the fifty extra pounds, you will find that your health will improve all the time.

Alice G. S.—Keep your skin softened by giving it a treatment each day with a good cream followed by dashing very cold water over the skin to close pores and increase the circulation under it.

Slim—A well shaped foot always has a slender heel. Shoes must fit the heel and ankle snugly or they will become thick and coarse.

John T.—As your hair is brown with a reddish tint you will find all shades of brown or red becoming to you in ties. In suits, navy blue, black or mixed shades of tan and brown will be your best choice.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Husband, Wife Burn To Death In House

LA GRANDE, Ore., Dec. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Church were burned to death here when fire destroyed their home. They apparently had been suffocated. The fire had a good start when discovered and efforts of neighbors to rescue the couple were unavailing.

Lemon and orange flavoring from the fresh fruit is especially beneficial in invalid cookery. Its acid stimulates the appetite. In these two fruits is found a large percentage of "Vitamine C",—that element which makes for strength and growth. Contrary to common belief, oranges and lemons are alkaline-producing, not acid-forming, in digestion. Try the following:

Lemon Jelly: Soak one teaspoon of granulated gelatine in one tablespoon of cold water for five minutes, then dissolve this in one-third cup of boiling water and add two and one-half tablespoons of granulated sugar. Cool slightly, then add two tablespoons of lemon juice and turn the mixture into a serving dish. Set in a cold place till firm.

Moulded Rice: Soak one teaspoon of granulated gelatine in one tablespoon of cold water for five minutes, then dissolve it in one-half cup of boiling water and add to it four tablespoons of sugar, a few gratings of lemon rind, and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Set it aside in a cool place till it begins to harden (that is, till it clings to the sides of the bowl but is not firm in the center.) Now fold into it three tablespoons of cooked rice and one-eighth of a cup of whipped cream. Turn the mixture into small glass cups and place them in a cool place to become firm. Just before serving, top each little cup of moulded rice with a dab of whipped sweetened cream (for this, use another eighth of a cup of confectioners' sugar.) Sprinkle a little ground nutmeg and cinnamon over all.

Orange Blossom: Soak one and one-half teaspoons of granulated gelatine in one tablespoon of cold water, then dissolve it in one-half cup of boiling water; add three tablespoons of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of grated orange rind, one-fourth cup of orange juice, and cool till it begins to adhere to the sides of the bowl as above described. Then fold into it one-fourth cup of whipped double cream and turn the mixture into glass cups to harden. If desired a small amount of this cream may be held out to be sweetened and used for decorating the tops of cups.

Orange Egg Nog: Beat one egg till the white and yolk are mixed, then add two teaspoons of sugar, one-half cup of orange juice, and one-fourth cup of sweet cold milk. Strain into glass, sprinkle with ground nutmeg and a pinch of salt, and serve.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

A free employment bureau for the use of Glendale employers in all lines and for all those seeking employment will be maintained by the City Welfare department, co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today by Dr. G. Kaemmerling. There will be no charge connected with the service either to employers or employes.

The large flood of inquiries, both for work and workmen made to the welfare department in recent weeks caused Dr. Kaemmerling to provide for a full time schedule to care for this work. A clerk in the department will be on duty at all times to list wants of employers or anyone needing any kind of help, Dr. Kaemmerling stated. All those seeking employment, men and women alike, are urged to make use of the bureau. The telephone number is Glendale 1300.

The employment committee of the Chamber of Commerce will act in conjunction with Dr. Kaemmerling in securing work for unemployed persons in Glendale.

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, DEC. 20, 1924

GROWS LARGE AMOUNT ON SMALL LOT

Sacramento Bachelor Holds Title of Champion 'Town Farmer'

By L. C. OWEN
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 20.—To 64-year-old Paul H. Steede, bachelor insurance man of this city by day, and self styled "amateur" agriculturist during his spare time, must be accorded the title of world's champion "town lot" farmer.

On a lot only 40 feet wide and 151 deep, part of it preempted by a comfortable bungalow within which the elderly agriculturist-insurance man lives, Mr. Steede has grown $1,200 worth of fruits, nuts and vegetables in twelve months. The value of his remarkable "town lot" farm crop is computed on the basis of retail prices at which he actually sold the major portion of his products.

On the same basis of figuring the theoretical-mathematical conclusion has been reached that Mr. Steede, were he not circumscribed by neighbors' fences, could raise a $10,800 crop every year on an acre of ground, or—take a pencil and figure this out for yourself—$1,728,000 worth of farm products annually from an average 160 acre farm.

Crops Numerous

Aside from the monetary value of the crops he raises, Mr. Steede also might lay serious claim to being the world's most intensive farmer. He can make more different things grow in the same square foot of ground than anybody the state agricultural department here has ever met up with.

Although Mr. Steede's farm in actuality covers only two-thirds his lot the list of things which he grows on it looks like the whole national roster of agricultural products. Since last January 1 he has raised and marketed thirty-five different kinds of vegetables, twenty-two varieties of herbs, fourteen varieties of grapes, seven kinds of blackberries and five varieties each of raspberries, currants, strawberries, loganberries and gooseberries.

Raises Own Tobacco

In addition he has eleven different kinds of fruit trees and an almond tree which this year produced 300 pounds of almonds. He had an orange tree last spring, but "traded" it in for room to build a sleeping porch on his bungalow.

Merely as an experiment Mr. Steede during the summer also grew seven different kinds of cotton plants and five varieties of castor bean plants. Needless to

Operation Of Steel Mills Shows Gain

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 20.—Another spurt in steel mill operations has carried production in this district to nearly 85 per cent of ingot capacity. Incoming orders justify this rate and show a tendency to increase. Operations of the Carnegie Steel Co. show a gain of 10 per cent in the last two weeks and the high rate will be abandoned only for the holidays. Blast furnace activity is expanding. The big plate mills at Homestead are working at 60 per cent of capacity and producers are not inclined to take any business in steel bars for less than 2.10 cents. The structural steel market is now quotable at 2 to 2.10 cents a pound.

Amendment on Subdivisions Is Proposed

Provision in the state real estate license law that would require subdivision promoters to put up a bond for the completion of promised improvements within a specified time is the proposed safeguard advanced for California by Edwin T. Keiser, state real estate commissioner.

The proposed amendment, which the commissioner will recommend to the coming state legislature, will be of interest to subdividers throughout the National Association of Real Estate boards. Methods of control of subdivision development through professional standards and otherwise to insure sound development of the new home areas of cities will be an important topic before the round table of the Homebuilders and Subdividers division of the association to be held at Dallas, Texas, January 13. The meeting is one of the seven national round tables of real estate specialists which will open the annual meeting of the association to be held in Dallas, January 13 to 16, inclusive.

White to Relinquish Gavel at Fresno Meet

President Everett A. White of the California Real Estate association has issued a call for a meeting of the directors of the California Real Estate association to be held on top of the recently built fifteen story Pacific Southwest bank building in Fresno on January 3.

The quarterly meeting of the board of directors will be followed by a banquet at the California hotel at which D. Richard Ainsley, Fresno, who succeeds Mr. White as president of the state association, will have the oath of office administered to him by Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser.

All realty boards are being invited by the Fresno Realty board, according to President E. G. Hughson, to send their representatives. It is believed that more than 300 realtors will be in attendance. The program of 1925 state activities in developing California will be launched at the Fresno meeting.

C. J. Platt Starts on Tour of California

Clifton J. Platt, state director, Pasadena, chairman of the "Own Your Own Home" committee of the California Real Estate association, has started a state-wide tour, which will include the majority of the 100 realty boards of the state, urging the co-operation of the local boards in the state association's extensive and intensive campaign to stimulate home building in California.

Definite plans have been laid out, local committees are sought, and advertising and publicity programs will be assisted in each city by the state association offices.

Mr. Platt who enjoyed signal success as the general chairman of the convention committee of the state association, will devote the greater part of the next two months to developing plans for this very important work.

ORGANIZATION PROTECTS OWNERS

Purpose, Aims of Builders' Exchange Outlined by Secretary-Manager

By HENRY MOLZ
Secretary-Manager of the Glendale Builders' Exchange.

All houses look like good houses while they're still in the blue print stage. But a lot of them when built look wrong. Poor construction methods, inferior materials and slip shod mechanics can do a lot of harm to the soundest and most carefully worked out plan.

The one who suffers is the owner. People form their impressions of the owner from the house—they don't know, or stop to think, that the contractor is to blame, and they don't care.

Choosing the contractor is just as important as other details incident to the construction of the building, indeed, in many instances of record, has proven itself to be the most important of all.

Blame on All

As in practically all vocations, the building industry, too, has its quota of irresponsible and unreliable, and it is these that prospective builders must fight shy of. The fly-by-night is another who bears watching and if builders will closely investigate contractors before signing the building contract much of the present day grief will be avoided.

It is these conditions that have from time immemorial, caused the honest and efficient of all classes to unite to stave off the underlying principles of the undesirable in their vocations, and in the building industry, the Associated Contractors of America and the National Association of Builders' Exchanges stand out as the leaders in this field.

In this city, the Builders' Exchange of Glendale has functioned since March 30, 1923. For a year following its organization, the association maintained permanent headquarters at 113 North Maryland avenue, for the mutual benefit of its members and the public as well. Temporary quarters are now maintained at the residence of the secretary-manager, Attorney Henry Molz, 363 West Lexington drive, and despite the lack of public quarters, much good is being accomplished in bringing to a closer relationship the business of the contractor and the building owner.

Check on Members

Membership in the local exchange means much to prospective building owners, for membership stands for contractors of reliability, integrity and responsibility. Applicants for membership are carefully investigated and those with shady records and

San Antonio Board to Conduct Historic Trip

The San Antonio, Texas, Real Estate board, through its president, H. G. Thorman, and its directors, formally invites all realtors of the United States and Canada who attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Real Estate boards at Dallas, January 13 to 16, to visit San Antonio immediately following the adjournment of the convention.

A visit to the historic Alamo, built as a Franciscan mission in 1722 and later a battle ground in the Texas struggle for independence from Mexico, has been planned for the entertainment of the visitors. There will also be visits to the old Spanish missions, the Mexican section, the great United States army camps and the flying fields located at San Antonio, and an inspection of the city's park development and its residential section.

Board To Get Measures On Rent Control

A survey of all rent control legislation passed in the United States during the last five years and of the effect of such legislation will be made by the National Association of Real Estate boards during the coming month. The survey will accumulate in the library of the association information on the extent of legislative attempts to regulate rent which it is believed has been nowhere else brought together.

The association will assemble for study the texts of all laws for rent control now in effect or having been in effect within the past five years, the plan of organization of all rent commissions or similar bodies set up to adjust terms of rentals, and any court decisions made on the subject of rent control. It will also bring together the experience of the various cities and states where such legislation has been experimented with. The investigation will be undertaken through the member boards of the association in 505 cities.

Southland Realtors To Motor to Fresno

A caravan of more than fifty machines loaded with members of the California Real Estate association and comprising delegations from many of the southern boards will leave Los Angeles Saturday morning January 3 at 7:30 o'clock to attend the inauguration of President-Elect D. Richard Ainsley at Fresno that night.

This announcement was made today by President Everett A. White, in appointing Cliff W. Clegg, realtor of Los Angeles, to be chairman of the caravan committee and grand marshal of the caravan. Banners and pennants in honor of the inauguration will be prepared.

The caravan will be escorted by motor police over the Ridge route, and, arriving at Bakersfield, will have 45 minutes for luncheon, and is due to arrive at the California hotel, scene of the inauguration, at 5 o'clock.

Grand Marshal Clegg is a member of the Southwest and Los Angeles Realty boards. He is making a personal call upon the local boards and will name a strong committee. He will have the co-operation of each vice president. It is learned also that a large number of northern and central realtors will make up a party to arrive at Fresno for the inauguration.

Barbour to Speak at Convention In Dallas

Past President Henry P. Barbour of the California Real Estate association, has been invited by National President H. Robert Ennis to respond to the toast "The Realtor" at the banquet held in conjunction with the mid-winter convention of the national association at Dallas on January 16.

Colonel Barbour, who recently celebrated his 70th birthday, has accepted the invitation and will recount in his address the remarkable success of his slogan "Take the Realtor in Earnest," which he delivered before more than 70 boards in California and the national convention in Washington last summer.

Retail Business at High Point In South

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20.—Retail business is at the highest point for several months due to Christmas buying and belated purchases of clothing and underwear which was deferred until cold weather set in. Further impetus to buying is expected from distribution by the banks of $2,225,000 in Christmas funds. In wholesale lines groceries, drugs and hardware report increases in sales of 10 to 15 per cent and there is a heavy volume of toy fill-in orders. Trade with Central America continues to improve and buyers for that market now are placing large orders ahead.

Now He Knows Why He Never Sold Property

Realtor Bob Peterson, of Fresno, California, crossed wires the other day, so the National Association of Real Estate boards has heard, with a dusky brother who was trying to sell real estate.

"Have you a license?" asked Bob.

"Nossah!"

"Don't you know that you can't sell real estate without a license?"

"Boss," said the darky, "You sho' said a mouf ful'. I knowed I couldn't sell it, but I didn't know de reason."

NEW MEMBERS ARE ADDED TO BOARD

Statewide Drive Successful; Association Officials Highly Elated

Five new active and eighteen associate members were added to the ranks of the Glendale Realty board during the week's membership drive, just brought to a successful close. The drive was conducted in conjunction with a state-wide movement for greater board membership sponsored by the California Real Estate association.

"The results of the Glendale drive for members are most gratifying to the officials of the board who see in the active interest taken in this project, the true spirit of co-operation which exists among the more than 100 members," said President W. L. Twining.

Those elected to membership during the drive are: Active—C E. Kimlin Co., 225 East Broadway; W. T. Vickery, 600 North Brand boulevard; Alfred G. Bartley, 941 North Pacific avenue; O. L. Zook, 113 East Broadway; H. H. Garmong, 600 South Central avenue. Associate members—E. M. Shutt, with Arthur Campbell; Thomas Brownlie, with Arthur Campbell; A. L. Leonard, Leroy Detwiler, N. J. Bernard, V. R. Stemm, all with Twining & Myers, and W. J. Snider, with J. C. Redman Co.

Increase Heavy

Reports are still coming in to the California Real Estate association on its state-wide membership drive, and indicate that the increase in new state members will be very heavy. A large percentage of the boards took part in the campaign and not only added additional board members but also brought in 20 to 30 per cent additional state membership. The pledges will run the grand total to well over 500 new members, and the additional local board associate members will give the boards at least 500 more making the grand total from all sources for boards and state and national associations about 1000 members.

"The drive was a grand success in every way," Secretary Glen D. Willaman reported today. "It served to help the boards strengthen their own position in the community. I believe that the influence of the drive will continue for at least three months more, and will eventually bring to the state association one thousand new members.

"It is extremely gratifying to report new boards are being organized in a number of counties and those boards are to be presented to the Dallas meeting to

Heavy Winter Building Expected In Missouri

WIDENING OF ROAD HELPS PROPERTY

Industrial Tracts Located on San Fernando Increase Fast In Value

The passage of the proceedings for the opening and widening of San Fernando road from city limit to city limit has been the greatest business stimulant in Glendale's industrial section within the past year, according to L. H. Wilson, realtor, 1034 South San Fernando road.

City Council formally approved the proceedings last month and the improvements, when completed, will make San Fernando road 56 feet wide and 86 feet from property line to property line. According to the city engineer's office, it will be necessary to widen from 3 to 27 feet. Plans for the paving of this thoroughfare are now being prepared and will be submitted for approval after the first of the year.

During the past week Mr. Wilson's office has made a number of large deals and Mr. Wilson calls attention to the amount of money being invested in the San Fernando road-Garfield-Los Angeles streets industrial district. TAX RECEIPTS IN DISTRICT INCREASE

Los Angeles and Florida Are Only Units to Show Gain Over 1920

The Los Angeles district was the only internal revenue unit, with the exception of Florida, that registered an increase in federal tax receipts for the fiscal year 1924, over 1920, the year in which internal revenue collections reached the highest point in the history of the treasury department.

In making public today a resume of the annual report of the internal revenue bureau, Collector Rex B. Goodcell disclosed the fact that while the 1924 receipts of the Los Angeles district showed a gain of 11 per cent over the 1920 collections, every internal revenue district in the United States, except Florida, developed losses running from 25 per cent to 77 per cent. Florida registered a nominal gain of 1 per cent, while the decrease for the United States as a whole was 48 per cent, compared with the Los Angeles district's increase of 11 per cent.

Compared with a gain of $5,640,000 in the Los Angeles district, New York's loss was $748,000,000; Pennsylvania, $257,000,000; Illinois, $228,000,000; Massachusetts, $213,000,000; Ohio, $218,000,000; Connecticut, $69,800,000; Texas, $68,000,000, and San Francisco, $55,800,000. The decrease for the United States as a whole was $2,611,401,000. Florida's gain was but $196,000.

How States Stood

The following table shows the percentage of gains and losses of the internal revenue districts of the United States, comparing the receipts of the fiscal year 1924 with those of 1920, the banner year, and reflects business conditions in Southern California as compared with those of other sections of the country:

Gains—Los Angeles district, 11; Florida, 1.

Losses—New Mexico, 77; South Dakota, 70; South Carolina, 67; Connecticut, 65; Texas, 65; Oregon, 62; North Dakota, 61; Massachusetts, 60; New Hampshire, 60; Louisiana, 60; Minnesota, 59; Mississippi, 58; Ohio, 58; Colorado, 57; Nebraska, 57; Utah, 57; Montana, 56; Wisconsin, 56; Iowa, 55; Georgia, 55; Washington, 55; Rhode Island, 54; Missouri, 54; New York, 52; Hawaii, 51; Idaho, 51; Illinois, 51; Wyoming, 50; Tennessee, 49; Pennsylvania, 49; Delaware, 49; Arkansas, 48; Oklahoma, 48; Kansas, 48; Alabama, 46; Vermont, 46; Philippine Islands, 46; San Francisco, 43; Kentucky, 42; Nevada, 41; West Virginia, 41; Arizona, 40; Maryland, 38; Indiana, 38; Virginia, 34; Maine, 32; New Jersey, 27; Michigan, 22; North Carolina, 3. United States as a whole, 48 per cent.

Show Big Growth

"These figures reveal an amazing story of the steady growth in population and in the production of income of the Los Angeles district," said Collector Goodcell.

"While other districts in the United States have suffered tremendous losses in receipts, comparing 1924 with the year 1920 when the full battery of federal taxes was in force and business conditions were highly prosperous, the Los Angeles district has been able to overcome the loss of revenue due to immense reductions in taxes provided by the revenue acts of 1921 and 1924, and register in 1924 an increase in collections over 1920, the banner year in the treasury department's history.

"Facing losses of revenue running up to $15,000,000 annually, owing to tax reductions, the Los Angeles district has offset these losses by revenue produced by new income which followed the steady increase in population. The Los Angeles district is now known in United States treasury circles as the 'Rock of Gibraltar'."

Communism Fires Japs To Fight Off Sovietism

dor and became dean of the diplomats there. John Jacob Schurmann, envoy of the United States, returned home and is still here.

Sun Yat Sen, president of the Chinese republic with headquarters at Canton, is an adventurer, a fanatic to some extent, an avowed socialist, and in league with the soviets. He recently won from the forces of manufacturing interests in south China and it was credited as a "Red" victory.

The cause of recent warfare between the great powers was over the control of Shanghai. It was for the purpose of getting revenue from customs house receipts to pay Chi Hsieh Yuan's soldiery of neighboring provinces. Wei Pu Fu entered the conflict in an effort to control the Yangtse river, and the railroad running from Shanghai into central China, as well as the Grand canal. Chung Tsao Lin, also seeking to become the high authority, fought him. Sun Yat Sen in south China was too busy with his own private war to enter into the conflict.

Chung Tsao Lin had Japan's backing because he is opposed to sovietism.

General Fung, leading 80,000 of Wei Pu Fu's Christian troops, took Peking and then because Wei Pu Fu would not agree to fight "to end war" and make his armies "moral," General Fung withdrew although 40,000 of his troops still hold Peking.

Because of the patriotic Chinese desire for a republic the Russian soviet emissaries offering them freedom from dictatorship have made inroads of which the Japanese are fearful.

It is the opinion of Mr. Isett, from a pastor's standpoint, that there must be a united Christianity to deal with the situation for the Buddhists, the Confucians and the Mohammedans are secretly uniting. He says the real leaders of China are outstanding Christian men fighting for peace. However, the many factors entering into the China complex, can only be understood by one who has the Chinese viewpoint.

For instance, Confucian classics teach scorn for the soldiers because they destroy—and yet bandits are open and above board in their dealings with the authorities who are Confucians. Illustrating this point, a stable man worked in summer for the town magistrate, Mr. Isett recounted, and in the winter time he made his living as a bandit. The latter class is much the same type as Robin Hood of Old England.

took sides for another snow battle, and at 11 o'clock hiked on over the ridge to Mt. Wilson and down the trail to Sierra Madre, where they were met by automobiles.

Frank C. Ayars, chairman of camping, arranged the trip at the small expense to the boys of $1.75 each.

Hi-Y Campers on Return Trip Home

Thirty-three members of the Glendale Hi-Y party, which spent the week at Big Bear lake, left Lowe's camp early this morning and will arrive home in Glendale some time tonight unless detained by snow in the mountain passes.

The party is under the direction of Rex Kelley, executive of the Y. M. C. A., and includes members of the Hi-Y club and several Y directors and their wives. Henry Michel, who accompanied the boys to the camp last week-end, was held up for several days by snowstorms, reaching Glendale only Thursday night. He reported nearly three feet of snow in many places.

Harry G. MacBain Is Proposed for Council

D. H. Smith, banker, made known his decision not to accept the appointment in a letter to R. S. Person, president of the Glendale Republican club, published Thursday in The Glendale Evening News. Many business men who sought the appointment of Mr. Smith, swung over at that time, augmenting the MacBain forces and presenting a solid front of merchants and business men in his favor.

Mr. MacBain is the owner of MacBain's Grocery store, 634 East Broadway, and is actively identified with industrial subdivisions and other realty projects. He is recognized as one of the leaders in Glendale's business life and, friends declare, will make a highly valuable member of the City Council. It is pointed out that the city can count itself fortunate in securing the services of Mr. MacBain.

Election of Officers Planned by Woodmen

Election of officers to serve for the ensuing year will take place Monday night at the meeting of Glendale camp, No. 12886, Modern Woodmen of America, which will be held at the Knights of Pythias hall, corner of South Brand boulevard and Park avenue. All members are requested to be present. A live turkey will be raffled, the money being used to augment the social fund. Refreshments will be served, and an unusual treat is promised.

SOCIETY SEEKING HOMES FOR DOGS

Ten Animals Are Available; Keepers for Shelter Are Secured

While folks are busy with their Christmas giving the Glendale Humane society announces that there are ten nice dogs in the animal shelter at 715 Ivy street that would be fine gifts for good homes in Glendale. At the society meeting last night in charge of J. B. Murphy, it was decided that those desiring to take dogs from the shelter will be required to pay $2 for a membership.

Mr. and Mrs. Styles have been engaged as keepers of the shelter and are now comfortably located in the living quarters. Generous donations have been made for the quarters. In addition to many personal gifts, there have been gifts from Murphy Brothers' Furniture Co., Glendale Furniture store, Glendale Hardware Co., Glendale Phonograph Co., Gregg Hardware store and Glendale Dairy, which is to furnish milk for a month for the dogs.

At the meeting a welfare committee was named, including Franz Razek, Mrs. E. W. Kulp, Mrs. J. E. Zink. The next meeting of the society will be after the holidays.

President Confers on Successor to Wallace run on business principles and marks the beginning of a real step toward the ideal state in agriculture which has been urged for a generation. It is one of the devices by which the farmer is learning to help himself without government interference or much government assistance.

The fact that the president talked with Judge Bingham at length means that he realizes the importance of the national council of the co-operatives and it would not be surprising if he delivered a carefully prepared address on agricultural policy when the meeting occurs.

The co-operatives represented by Judge Bingham realize that the government can help to co-ordinate in various ways and can especially be of assistance in bringing the department of agriculture to the aid of the farmers. But the co-operatives want to work out their own problems and they have already been encouraged by the success of the last three years to believe that such a formula is best for all concerned.

Commission Meets

By a coincidence the agricultural commission appointed by President Coolidge to investigate the whole farm problem resumes its sessions here on January 8 so there is no doubt that the co-operatives and the commission will exchange thoughts. In fact, from that time on something tangible in the way of a legislative program may be expected for the leaders of congress will then have full opportunity to know just what is the opinion of leaders of the agricultural industry on the measures pending in congress for farm aid.

Judge Bingham naturally did not wish to discuss his visit with the president, but it was stated by White House officials that the president wanted to talk over the whole problem of agriculture as it relates to the co-operatives and prepare his mind for the discussions which are to come after the first of the year.

As for Messrs. Hardison and Wilson of California, they came on an errand which is of quite as great importance to agriculture, namely, the selection of an able secretary of agriculture.

They emphasized to the president that they hoped he would appoint a man of the mental calibre and energy and vision of Herbert Hoover. They think agriculture is the greatest single industry of America and should have a business mind working on it. They have been impressed with Mr. Hoover's indefatigable labors in the department of commerce and they have assurances from some of the men who cherish war time prejudices in connection with the fixing of the price of wheat that if Mr. Hoover would work as hard in the department of agriculture as he has in the department of commerce they would have no objection to his appointment.

The president, of course, realizes the value of Mr. Hoover in the department of commerce and would be loath to transfer him. The incident indicates, however, how important the agricultural interests of the country regard the filling of the portfolio of agriculture in the cabinet.

State Prohibition Agent Says New Speed Boats Watching Runners

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—Christmas liquors in California will be difficult to obtain, according to S. F. Rutter, state prohibition director, who is a visitor here from San Francisco. Rutter said today that new speed boats combating rum runners would prevent landing of extensive stocks for the holidays.

Federal prohibition enforcement in California, Nevada and Hawaii will be administered in the future through the headquarters for general agents here, Rutter said. Separation of enforcement and inspection work of prohibition forces is in effect in the east and that plan will probably be followed in the west, the director said.

Director Rutter said nothing official has been learned regarding the reported naming of Captain Charles Goff of San Francisco as divisional chief of prohibition agents.

Probe Is Ordered Into Dry Agent's Poisoning

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 20.—Federal Prohibition Agent Isaac H. Cory today ordered an investigation into conditions at Marysville as a result of the poisoning of one of his prohibition agents in an alleged bootlegging resort in the northern community.

Cory said the officer was served poisoned liquor after the bootlegger had discovered his identity. The officer is in a serious condition at a local hospital. Five men were arrested in raids in the Yuba county town after the officer was stricken. Those under arrest are Lester Miller, Gus Vigel, John Alvinjos, Tim Calles and John Malleck.

Proposed Immigration Laws Don't Worry Japs

TOKIO, Dec. 20.—It was semi-officially stated today that Japan is not concerned over the proposal of the United States house immigration committee to call a conference to draft uniform American laws. It is not thought likely here that President Coolidge will approve and it is further believed here that it would be difficult to induce other nations to participate.

Two Children Dead as Flames Destroy Home

The dead: John Francis Johnson, 4, and Mildred Whiteman, 2. Clinton Whiteman, Jr., and Evelyn and Emma Whiteman were burned on face and hands. An overheated stove caused the fire.

England Makes Move In Regard to War Debt

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

"You are right," she assented. "I will go down. Good night, Grant."

He kissed her fingers, horrified to find how cold they were. He insisted on taking her down the companionway to the door of her stateroom. She turned and smiled at him a little wanly. The suite consisted of a tiny sitting room as well as a bedroom and bathroom, the latter all black and white marble and gleaming silver.

"You give me so much luxury, Grant," she sighed. "If only you could find a little kindness in your heart for me."

He felt suddenly brutal. He stooped and kissed her hands.

"Dear Gertrude," he whispered, "my heart is full of kindness. So full—"

"So full, Grant?"

"So full that I don't know how to offer it to you," he answered. "You see I'm a clumsy brute, Gertrude, and I've never been able to forget the years when I thought you the most beautiful thing on earth!"

"But you don't any longer!" she cried.

He turned away. She listened anxiously to his receding footsteps. Then she threw herself on the sofa with a little moan. Afterwards she prepared for bed, left her door on the latch, wrapped a dressing gown of wonderful, rose-colored slik around her, lit a standard electric light, drew out a book at random, and made a pretence at reading. She waited until she heard him come down the gangplank, heard him pass her door with unfaltering footsteps, on his way to his own quarters, heard him open and close the door of his own room. Then she dropped the book and turned over on her face amongst the pillows.

The next morning they passed Gibraltar soon after noon and headed for the Straits. At one o'clock Grant, who had spent the morning on the bridge, descended and walked down the deck. The chair in Gertrude's accustomed place was empty. Brookes came out from the little smoke room with a single cocktail upon a tray.

"Where is Madam?" Grant enquired.

"Her Highness sent word that she would remain in her rooms today," Brookes answered. "She begged that you would not disturb yourself on her account. She is simply a little tired."

Grant frowned. He was most unexpectedly disappointed.

"Who is looking after the Princess?" he asked.

"I thought of doing so myself, if you have no objection, sir," the man replied. "If you can manage with Jackson in the saloon, sir, it would perhaps be better."

Grant nodded and went to his solitary luncheon. It was certainly, to some extent, a relief to be spared the haunting question of her eyes, to be made to feel all the time that, in some way or another, he was unintentionally avenging himself for the great slight of his life. Yet the solitude oppressed him. He ate without his usual appetite and even forgot his whisky and soda until the meal was over. He spent the afternoon engaged upon some work. At six o'clock he sent her a little note:

My dear Gertrude, he wrote,

I am so sorry you are not well. Is there anything I can do? Shall I have the pleasure of seeing you at dinner time?"

In a few minutes Brookes brought back an answer.

Dear Grant,

There is nothing the matter with me. If it is any pleasure to you, I will come to dinner.

In a sense he hated the satisfaction with which he read the few lines. He turned around and faced himself a little savagely as he realized the feeling. The wind, which had been freshening during the last few days, was now blowing almost a gale. He put on his oilskins, lit a pipe, and walked out on deck. Even he, a yachtsman from his boyhood, had to crawl along for some time, clutching at any support he could find, until he reached the railing. Linking his arm through it, he stood and looked down at the boiling cauldron of waters below. White-capped waves rose one after another, as though to defy their progress. The first officer passed him on the way to the bridge.

"Heavy sea, sir, for the time of the year," he observed.

"Is it getting worse, do you think?"

The man shook his head.

"It will blow itself out by dusk, sir," he prophesied. "It's a pleasure to see the way she rides through it."

Grant found his way presently on to the bridge and walked for an hour in the roar of the wind and with the spray dashing continually in his face. Towards the hour of twilight there was a faint yellow line of light westward—the only parting in the ever-gathering clouds.

"What do you think of it, Captain?" Grant asked.

"I'm thinking she's the grandest little weather boat I've ever been on," the latter replied. "All the same, it's as well we're on the southern route. We might have lost a boat or two. It will be down before morning, sir."

Grant, curiously excited by the storm, changed for dinner a little before his usual time and made his way to the tiny smoke room. Brookes was already there, mixing cocktails.

"We will have a bottle of the special Clicquot tonight," Grant ordered.

"Her Highness is dining, I believe, sir," the man told him. "She said that she felt much better."

THE GATEWAY

The rare combination of an Elinor Glyn story brought to the screen with her two favorite screen lovers playing the hero and heroine is the promise of "His Hour," Mrs. Glyn's latest Metro-Goldwyn production, which will come to the Gateway Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for a run of three days.

In the first place, John Gilbert, as a romantic Russian Prince, is said to come up to all expectations as just what Elinor Glyn's ideal hero should be like, and Aileen Pringle, who demonstrated so definitely her ability and charm in "Three Weeks," is again the beautiful heroine.

"His Hour" tells the story of a fascinating English widow, brought up in straight laced manner, meeting informally Gritzko, the fiery Russian Prince whom all women adore.

She is instantly attracted to him, but knowing him by reputation, she resolves she will not follow the trend of all women and become his slave. Therefore, the wall of aloofness freezes about her and the Prince, who has fallen love with her, cannot win her. She tantalizes him by her indifference, yet he goes to every means to win her.

Finally, as a last resort, he kidnaps her, and then follows a series of love scenes which are said even to surpass those in "Three Weeks." The climax, when the Prince and Tamara realize they love one another devotedly, is one of the most beautiful and realistic scenes ever brought to the screen.

King Vidor directed the production, and others in the cast besides the two leads are, Emily Fitzroy, Dale Fuller, Bertram Grassby, Capt. Wilfred Gough, David Mir and Mario Carillo. John Mescall was chief photographer.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

The Dobinson Players will present "Only 38" for the last time tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, announces Mrs. Florence Dobinson. Starting next Wednesday, the comedy "I Love You" will be offered. Radio fans who wish some "advance stuff" on the new offering can listen in Sunday night on KFI, from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, when Mrs. Dobinson will read a synopsis of the offering.

"Only 38" is from the pen of A. E. Thomas, one of the leading dramatists of the country. Miss Florence Kellar plays the leading role. The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Others in the cast include Olaf Hytten, Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, William H. Stephens, Thyra Ruhland, Gertrude Rothe, Richard Ehlers and George C. Pearce. Among some of the Glendalians appearing in the college scene are Helen Anderson, Winifred Anderson, Edwards Rothe, Harry Glazier, Maurice Widdows and Harold Teffry.

THE GLENDALE

"The Measure of a Man" concludes today at the Glendale Theatre. Sunday to Tuesday, the picture is Tom Mix in "The Trouble-Shooter."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHRISTMAS TREE

"Hurray! Hurray! This is the jolly day!" sang Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Why is this such a jolly day?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who had just eaten some carrot pancakes with maple sugar neckties on.

"Because this is the day you are going to hop to the woods to get the Christmas tree," explained Nurse Jane. "You must go to the forest, gnaw down a nice evergreen tree and bring it home here to me. I will set it up in a pail of sand and it will be all ready for Santa Claus to leave the presents on Christmas morning."

"Yes, indeed, this is a jolly day!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "And I'll get the finest Christmas tree I can find."

Out hopped the bunny rabbit gentleman and on the way to the woods he saw Sammie and Susie Littletail, also hopping along.

"Where are you going, bunny children?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"We are going after our Christmas tree," said Susie.

"Then come with me," invited Uncle Wiggily. "We'll all hop on together." So they went a little farther and they met Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys.

"Where are you going, little squirrels with the big tails?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"We are going after our Christmas tree," chattered Johnnie.

"Come with us and we'll go together," invited Mr. Longears. So he and Sammie and Susie and Johnnie and Billie went a bit farther into the woods.

Then they met Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys.

"Where are you going, my little Bow Wow chaps?" asked the rabbit.

"We are going after our Christmas tree," barked Jackie.

"Come with us and we'll all go together," invited Mr. Longears.

So he and Sammie and Susie and Johnnie and Billie and Jackie and Peetie went to the woods together. The rabbits, the squirrels and the puppy dog boys began to gnaw down evergreen trees for Christmas. Uncle Wiggily, being the largest and strongest, took the largest tree. And just as he was gnawing it down, out of the bushes popped the Weasel.

"Oh ho!" whispered the sly Weasel to himself. "I'll hide in the thick branches of Uncle Wiggily's tree. He'll drag it home behind him and he'll never see me in the branches. He'll take the tree into the bungalow and he'll take me in also, but he won't know it. Then, in the night, when he is asleep, I'll creep out and nibble him."

"Now we'll take the Christmas trees home, children," called Uncle Wiggily when each one had gnawed what he wanted.

So they dragged the green trees along the ground, but only Uncle Wiggily's tree had a bad Weasel in it. And the Weasel kept saying to himself:

"I'll creep out in the night and nibble the bunny."

The friends reached the parting of the paths. Sammie and Susie went one way with their Christmas tree, Johnnie and Billie took another path and Jackie and Peetie a third. Uncle Wiggily went over the hill to his hollow stump bungalow.

"Here is the Christmas tree, Nurse Jane!" called the bunny. The muskrat lady ran out to look at it before Uncle Wiggily pulled it into the house. And Nurse Jane, with her sharp eyes, saw the Weasel hiding in the branches.

"Oh ho, you bad chap! Come out of that!" cried Nurse Jane. She had a pail of water in her paws and this she tossed over the Weasel, wetting him well.

"Oh, gazinka!" howled the Weasel, who didn't like water. "I guess I'm not as smart as I thought I was," and off he scampered with his fur freezing into icicles from the water Nurse Jane threw on him. But it served the Weasel right, I say.

And if the bottle of milk will let the loaf of bread go in for a swim just before breakfast, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's holly wreaths.

GOOD FOR NEW SUITS

Cloth from which suits for men and women are made, is invariably kept in a moist condition when being made up at the mills in order to give strength to the wool and to prevent breakage when it is being woven. A dry atmosphere would mean many "faults" in the piece. For that reason clothmakers are warning the public that rain occasionally will not hurt a new outfit, but on the other hand will do some suits a lot of good. One tailor suggests ten minutes in a misting rain as the best "drink" for a suit, especially in the early days of its life.

MARTIN CROWNED BANTAM CHAMP

Abe Goldstein Loses Title In Snappy Battle Last Night at Garden

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Twenty-five years ago almost to the month, the Gowanus section of Brooklyn gave up a bantamweight champion whose name has lived down through the ages—McGovern, the Terrible Terry. Last night at Madison Square Garden, Cannonball Eddie Martin defeated Abe Goldstein on points at the end of fifteen rounds and a new bantamweight champion was born from the neighborhood in some respects prototype of the once terrible one.

That is as it should be. The Cannonball, man and boy, has lived to the ripe old age of 21, with the picture of McGovern ever held before him as an example of what a fighting man should be. Martin may lack the ferocity of attack that made McGovern famous but he has the heart, the punch and never for a moment does he stop rushing and plunging in.

Takes Punishment

Four times during the third round Goldstein crossed a right flush to the Cannonball's jaw. They were punches that should have dropped any one, but Martin did not go down. His reply was the plunge in, groggy though he was, and carry the fight to Goldstein. Non-plussed, the latter subsequently went on the defensive and lost the decision.

The verdict questioned in many quarters was a close one but that is of no particular consequence. If Charley Paddock beat Jackson Scholz by inches, they wouldn't call it a dead heat.

NORTHERN SCHOOL GAME CANCELLED

Waite and Portland Will Not Play This Afternoon; Snow on Gridiron

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 20.—Berating Portland weather, everything connected with the city and condition of Multnomah field in particular, Assistant Coach Larry Bevan of Waite High school of Toledo, Ohio, has cancelled the scheduled game here today with Lincoln High school of Portland and this afternoon the team leaves for Toledo, minus $7000, the cost of the trip.

Bevan flatly refused to play, saying it would be risking injury for his team to play on Multnomah field, which is covered with ice and snow. Officials of Multnomah club agreed to scrape the field and recover it with fresh sawdust but Bevan remained adamant. He did not want to play, was sorry he brought his team out here, didn't like the city or its people, were among his caustic words of refusal.

Lincoln High officials charged he was afraid to risk Waite's national title against Lincoln. Other members of the Waite High party made it very plain they desired to play the game as much as Lincoln, but they indicated that Bevan was boss and his word final.

Waite was to return by way of San Francisco and Los Angeles but instead will go direct from Portland to Toledo.

Tampico, Mexico, is to have a new brick and cement city hall, the first floor to be furnished at once at a cost of $25,000 and the second story later.

Venezuela has finally consented to the use of radio receiving sets in that country.

STATE TITLE AT STAKE IN BATTLE

Berkeley and Bakersfield To Decide Issue; Favor Yellowjackets

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Dec. 20.—With the state high school championship as the prize the football elevens representing Berkeley high and Bakersfield high met here this afternoon. Early prospects indicated a record crowd would see the Drillers and Yellowjackets fight for the state title.

Berkeley, because of the season's record and her overwhelming defeat last Saturday of Lodi, went into the game prime favorites. The Bakersfield eleven, however, was not conceding defeat and were hoping that the state title so long theirs would remain in Kern county.

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Promoters who have been angling for a middleweight championship battle, Greb vs. Flowers, report that the champion has not shown any great eagerness to do battle, not indoors anyway.

What will happen when it comes to outdoor projects remains to be seen. But the dope is that Greb has reached a stage where he does not feel himself strong at the middle weight limit. When he met Flowers in Ohio last August he was pretty well down to the limit of his class and he did not stand the pace any too well.

Those who saw the fight, indeed, say that Harry got a pretty good pasting from the Atlanta negro. It is true he did not know much about Flowers when the two met and held him perhaps a little cheaply, but evidently he feels he knows a lot about him now and is keeping pretty quiet when the siren voices of promoters sound in his ears.

While Flowers was in these parts all the middleweights, Berlenbach included kept pretty quiet, in fact were not in evidence at all. All except Frankie Schoell, that is. Schoell was located and has signed to meet Flowers next month. Those who are interested in seeing Flowers up against a real test will have that opportunity when these two meet, for the Buffalo middleweight is a tough guy for any of them to tackle, bar none.

Flowers, by the way, is no chicken. He had a long grilling as a novice and learned more than once what it is to be knocked out, but now when he is nearing 30 he has developed not only a rugged punch but a style of milling that bothers every opponent.

It looks as though Tiger had taken a leaf from the book of a dodging half back, for as he rushes he reverses himself and very often punches from one direction while moving in another.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Convinced that it was the only way to save baseball from a disastrous internal "war," the American league has clipped the wings of its stormy petrel, Ban Johnson. But it has not forgotten the debt of gratitude it owes the pugnacious leader of the junior big league circuit. The very resolution removing him as a factor in interleague affairs was so worded as to make sure that no one forgot that Ban Johnson was the man who had made the American league one of the leading athletic organizations of the United States.

There was much that was disheartening and more that was pathetic in Wednesday's negotiations that brought about the downfall of "Big Ban." And Johnson was not placed on the skids until every effort had been made to save him.

The day's proceedings started off with a visit of the Pacification committee appointed in New York to high Commissioner Landis. They conferred with him at length, presenting a resolution which deplored Johnson's criticisms of the Judge and promising to see that it did not happen again. The commissioner told them flatly that it was not strong enough to meet with his ideas of what was necessary and the committee returned to the caucus of American league owners to draft a stronger resolution.

Johnson was in consultation with them at that time. It was apparent to the members present that he was dwelling in the old days of baseball when he was a force in the game that had made the American league a powerful rival to the old National and after they had heard his statements and heard what they must do to meet the demands of the highest power in baseball, they drafted another resolution which eventually was adopted by the joint session. It was the most painful task the American league had ever undertaken. The members were frank to confess that it meant humiliation for them. But they knew they had to go ahead with it or precipitate a war that would throw baseball into chaos.

Moreover, they knew that just as Johnson had one unshakable friend in the American league, he also had one implacable enemy who would vote with the National league and provide a majority against Johnson even aside from the final power against Johnson that resided in Judge Landis.

The implacable foe was Comiskey of Chicago. The unshakable friend was Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis club. Ball refused to the last to approve the resolution shearing his old friend of power, and the resolution, as finally adopted, bore the signature of only seven of the eight American league moguls.

Briefly, the resolution rebuked Johnson for seeking to "discredit" the commissioner, promised that if he ever criticized the commissioner again he would be thrown out altogether, removed from membership on the advisory council and retained for him only his position and salary as president of the American League with the stipulation that he should be allowed to handle only internal affairs.

Frank Navin of Detroit was named to take Johnson's place on the advisory council.

The action was the final scene in a baseball tragedy that began in the minor league meeting at Hartford. It was evident then that plans were on foot to strip Johnson of his power. But the American league men refused to believe it could happen until the bitter end.

"They have made us swallow our medicine," said one of the American league leaders after the meeting. "It was a bitter dose but we shall have to digest it the best we can. We are going ahead on the next spring campaign and we shall try to forget our bitter memories of the moment by playing better baseball next year."

Johnson still is a power in the American league—but he is a power with his hands tied. When he left the caucus meeting of the league, saying he presumed it would be best for him to retire so as not to embarrass his fellows, he left behind him sad faces and some who had not forgotten what he had done for his organization.

His greatest crime was that he "lived in the past," that he had become a victim of his pursuit of dishonesty in baseball, which had become an obsession with him. He was determined to punish the "Crooks" who had tried to make the National game a football for their profit and could not be restrained.

The action on Johnson was about the only thing accomplished at Wednesday's meeting. The minor league suggestion that eight players were enough to be put out on option was turned down and the number will remain at fifteen. The proposal that players be put out on option for five years instead of the present two was withdrawn. So was Connie Mack's proposal that players selling for more than $10,000 should receive a percentage of the sales price.

Ruether of Brooklyn will go to Washington. By making this purchase Griffith believes he has built up a pitching staff that will make the present world champions one of the teams to be dreaded in the pennant fight in 1925.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Sand lot, bush league, big league and hot stove league fans know by this time that Urban Shocker, St. Louis Browns star twirler and one of the few living spit-ball artists, has gone to Col. Ruppert's Yankees. The sorrel-topped veteran was with Yankees in '16 and '17. Yankees couldn't see any more in him as a hurler than Coolidge can see in Wilbur as a secretary of navy. They could see several world series in 'Bullet Joe' Bush, one of the players going to Browns for Shocker. 'Bullet Joe' wasn't so good.

In Shocker the Yanks have a veteran almost as aged as Eddie Collins and Walter Johnson. But he wins ball games. That's what Ruppert wants next year. Shocker has spitballed the Yanks out of more games than any other living enemy pitcher, excepting little Dickie Kerr, who jumped Kid Gleason's White Sox in '22 because Kid wouldn't give him a million smackers a season. He went with a semi-pro team playing in the sandlots around Chicago's south side.

Dickie begged like a hungry dog to get back the following season, but Judge Landis slammed his gavel down and said NO in the loudest tones Dickie ever heard emanate from a human.

Dickie Kerr was one of the sure-firest hurlers in the big leagues. He isn't any bigger than a good-sized stein of beer, but he could get 'em over the rubber without being bounced back.

In 1921 Ye Ed covered baseball at the Polo Grounds in the Big Town. That was the season Dickie was doing his stuff 100 per cent. Less than half as big as Babe Ruth, he would invariably send Babe to the dugout without a smell of the horsehide. Dickie was Babe's Nemesis, and Babe knew it, but Babe had to laugh it off.

Dickie Kerr and Urban Shocker caused the Yankees more trouble that season than gunmen have L. A. police this winter. Now Shocker is turned back to the Yankee outfit. "Bullet Joe" Bush goes in exchange along with two youngsters who thought they were good. The joke of the story is some of the Yanks' castoffs were good.

In 1922 Huggins and Ruppert got their heads together and decided old Roger Peckinpaugh had outgrown his usefulness. Last October's world series proved old Roger the star of the series for the Senators. Peck is almost a sure-fire hitter and a smart shortstop, despite his age.

With Roger in that trade in 1922 went Bill Piercy who, Huggins and Ruppert figured, was too much of a kid to pitch grown-up ball. Last season this same Bill made it mighty uncomfortable for the Yankees when they invaded the bean-eating town to play the Red Sox.

Huggins figured a couple of years ago if he got "Bullet Joe" Bush he couldn't lose a pennant. "Bullet Joe," who then was a veteran, proved a failure with the Yanks. He couldn't do his stuff. In the world series of 1923, Joe flopped like a fish out of water. That speedy ball of his proved easy picking for the rest of Johnson's circuit and McGraw's giant killers.

Bullet Joe was a member of Connie Mack's famous million dollar infield team before it was broken up in trades.

A fine example of poor judgment on the Yanks' part in executing trades is now a figure in the Coast league—Duffy Lewis. As a gardener few could touch Duffy. The Yanks a few years back let him go to Washington for a song. Then Duffy went to the Red Sox and did a lot of good work. Next year he will manage Portland for Connie Mack, who now owns that outfit.

"Red" Shocker is going to be a big asset to Huggins next year in two ways—as a sure-fire moundsman and as a booster to morale of team. Shocker is one of the old-time spitball artists, and how he can rub spit on that horsehide and make it "come-seven!"

On the other hand, as the one-armed paperhanger would say, Joe Bush might prove a lot of trouble to the Yanks, and probably will. Joe just couldn't do his stuff under Huggins. With the Browns he probably will prove dangerous around Johnson's circuit.

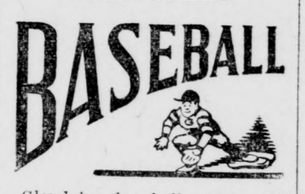
RUPPERT DENIES LEAGUE IS SPLIT

President of Yankees Gives Stand on Johnson and Landis Controversy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Denial was entered today by Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, of a report that the American league club owners had deserted Ban Johnson to support Judge Landis because they feared box office receipts would suffer if Johnson were sustained in his attacks on the integrity of baseball.

"The American league was loyal to Johnson as long as he remained in his place," Ruppert declared. "But he didn't. Judge Landis has been agreed upon as our supreme arbiter and it was up to all baseball to support him in his decision.

"We were called upon to accept terms dictated by a man who was perfectly right in his stand. Naturally, we did."



Glendale baseball fans will have opportunity to witness a double header here tomorrow afternoon. The first game will bring the Glendale Letter Carriers and the Ernest Athletic club of Los Angeles together, while the Glendale Caseys and the Pasadena council will clash in the second game. The opening contest will start at 12 o'clock. Richards will be on the mound for the mailmen, with Whitley doing the receiving. Chief Butler will do mound duty for the local Caseys, with Myers behind the log.

Burbank plays Pacific Electrics this afternoon at Burbank, and takes on San Fernando tomorrow at Burbank. M. C. Bacom is manager of the Burbank club.

The Glendale White Sox are slated to play the Pasadena Merchants at Tournament park tomorrow. Kerwin will probably use Jack Emerson for mound duty.

Fred Pfahler, who has been wearing a Glendale White Sox uniform this season, has signed to play with the Vernon Tigers next spring. Pfahler played with the Catalina Cubs last summer.

Jimmy Reese, stellar shortstop, who has been cavorting with the Glendale White Sox, will be given a tryout next spring with the Oaks.

Can a boxer fight if he don't like fighting?

Ask Tommy Carter, former Arizona cowboy, now holder of the so-called Pacific lightweight title.

Carter hates fights, dislikes pugilists, abhores managers, ignores fight fans and merely tolerates sport editors.

"I have only one interest in fighting—to build a little bungalow and put quite a few iron men in the bank," says Carter. Yet this boy is a fighting fool.

Over in Arizona where he used to swing Levisons they call him the "Gila Monster's Baby."

Carter looks like Keats, the poet, might have looked had he lived today. He wears huge hornshell glasses when not in the ring, dresses like Cyril Walker and knows some of John Masefield's poetry about the sea.

Between fights Tommy is regularly employed as an assistant engineer for the city of Los Angeles and he also assists Mrs. Carter at home. Every night he has a fight, first he must lull the Carter baby to sleep. Mrs. Carter insists upon that and sometimes in addition he has to wipe the dishes and wring out the baby's socks.

The new lightweight star, who won fame when he slapped Johnny Adams to sleep, is nuts about golf. He likes to talk golf—golf sticks, courses, clothes, records, players and 19th holes.

Carter plays golf at least three times a week and claims it is ideal in lieu of road work, which he does not care for, even when a tough fight looms.

Carter, who first started boxing when in the Seventeenth Cavalry, is not a pretty boxer. He folds up like a fan and goes into a hole most of the time. But even now and then he shoots out a wicked right and that wins him his salary.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—With Harvard in throes of indecision concerning her football coaching and Princeton likely to lose Roper an interesting question has arisen in the big three.

It relates to the time honored policy of having none but graduates as coaches. There is no vital reason why Yale, Harvard and Princeton should adhere to this policy, no reason, that is to say, aside from tradition. But tradition is a mighty thing among this group and naturally so since it extends back into the very roots of intercollegiate sport.

Nonetheless, this did not prevent Princeton's football authorities from discussing with Knute Rockne last year the possibility of coming to Old Nassau. The matter never got beyond a tentative stage because of the fact that Rockne finally deemed it advisable to sign a long term contract with Notre Dame, while on the other hand it seems that the Princeton crowd had reason to believe that her two associates would not view with equanimity a departure from tradition so radical.

If this was the case ideas seem to have changed among large groups of Yale and Harvard alumni. In spite of the fact that Percy Wendell, Harvard '12 and successful coach at Williams, has booked for Lehigh, it is understood that if Harvard wants him to come to Cambridge he will be able to respond.

But to date there seems to have been no clear call for Wendell from Harvard. His name has been mentioned but so too have the names of several prominent outside coaches been mentioned.

And at Yale, at least among an important group of players, the idea obtains that if the football prestige of the big three is to be maintained there must not be too slavish a regard for tradition. Their idea is that if a Rockne, or a Dobie or some other alumnus of another institution can make more out of a squad of football players than can a graduate, it is foolish not to engage that man.

Perhaps the success of Edward Leader, former University of Washington oarsman and coach, who has conducted Yale out of the aquatic swamps and made her crews second to none, has given birth to broader ideas at New Haven than formerly obtained. The Harvard crew is now coached by a westerner and Princeton has engaged a University of Washington product as assistant to Dr. Spaeth.

AT PHILADELPHIA — Marty Gold of Kensington outpointed Bobby Burke of Reading, ten rounds.

AT NEW YORK—Eddie "Cannonball" Martin, Brooklyn, won world's bantamweight title from Abe Goldstein on points, fifteen rounds.

Dick Hoppe lost a close decision last night to Ace Hudkins at the Hollywood American Legion stadium. The Nebraska lightweight copped the verdict by a whirlwind finish in the fourth round. Frank Farmer outpointed Ray Neuman. K. C. Kelly used his left mitt to good advantage and got the nod over Young Burmay. Billy Hart annexed the verdict by giving Frankie Dolan a beating. Roy Edwards was too much for Joe Dunn, although Joe surprised the fight fans by sticking the limit Smiling Joe Herman won over Al Robinson and Johnny Villa Flores outpointed Joe Garcia.

LOS ANGELES

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—Despite veto objections of Mayor Cryer, the Los Angeles City Council again has adopted the traffic ordinance recommended by Miller McClintock, traffic expert.

This city will be the base for southwest states' dry enforcement, it was announced by S. F. Rutter. An inspection bureau will be maintained in San Francisco. A. R. Harris of Columbus, Ohio, will be the agent in charge.

Two great Christmas trees will be held downtown this year, a morning newspaper and the Shrine club preparing for thousands of kiddies Tuesday night. Merchants report Santa Claus will have a heavy pack to carry this Yuletide season as sales have been better than ever.

While William Wrigley denies he is interested in the purchase of the Vernon Tigers ball team, William Lane, owner of the Salt Lake Bees, is reported as planning to purchase the Maier interests.

Lieutenant Colonel Perry W. Weidner last night was elected president of the Los Angeles sector, Association of the Army, at its monthly dinner in the City club. Major Arthur Evans will serve as secretary. A resolution of condolence for the widow of the late Congressman Julius Kahn was adopted. Dr. H. C. Smith, Lieutenant William F. Carroll and Gil A. Cowan were among those from Glendale present.

Raymond Capps and G. F. Mummer of Montebello, mistakenly shot by Deputy Sheriffs Ellison and Letts, are reported dead and Deputy Ellison is seriously wounded following a gun battle at Mummer's store in Hynes which had been robbed.

The Board of Supervisors has appropriated $25,000 for firebreaks to be built in the hills back of Glendale, Pasadena and Hollywood.

The Southern Pacific is authority that Los Angeles will have eighty-five carloads of Christmas trees from Washington and Oregon forests.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, Dec. 20.—Petitioners of Sunland will get a hearing December 29 before the county Board of Supervisors on the question of calling an election to incorporate a city of the sixth class. Reports state that a large majority of the voters of Sunland are in favor of incorporation, after a careful canvass of opinions has been made.

Over 200 children were entertained at a Christmas tree at the Sunland schoolhouse this week. Appropriate gifts were made to all who attended, from infants to the upper grades. A tree was furnished by Mrs. Dan Kevane, president of the Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. Garner and Mrs. Janetsky had charge of gathering the presents. A capacity crowd filled the auditorium to witness a program of tableaux, by the children, under the direction of Miss Catherine Crews.

A place at the north end of Third street where there are two deep gullies has been selected as a public dump, if the county authorities can be induced to pay the monthly rental of $5 asked by the onwer. Harry Zachau, Tujunga Chamber of Commerce appointee in the matter, has received an offer for the use of the property on those terms.

The recent precipitation of rain dampened the Verdugo hills of this district to the extent of one inch, according to a gauge in the valley.

Harry Rice, fire chief for the Tujunga-Sunland fire protection district, has taken delivery of the new fire engine and is established with a permanent telephone number for use in case of fire. Sunland 13 will get the quickest response from the new equipment.

A large attendance is expected at the next meeting of the Sunland Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, December 23, in view of the coming incorporation hearing on the 29th. This meeting will be a special one and will be held at the Sunland school.

Arrangements have been made to organize a Boy Scout troop in Sunland. Scout Executive H. R. Cheesman made a visit to Sunland the first of the week for a preliminary survey and will complete the organization next Saturday night at the Baptist church. Rev. W. E. Smith has been asked to serve as scoutmaster for the new troop.

Ed Shaffer is reported recovering from a recent attack of typhoid pneumonia.

Mrs. Herbert Brandstetter and her mother, Mrs. Mills, of San Fernando were recent visitors in Sunland.

Norman Stevens was crowded off the narrow pavement of Michigan avenue recently while driving to Sunland and had two spokes broken in a front wheel.

Mr. Melloe has gone to Camp Creemore, Tujunga, for treatment.

Ivan Box was a recent visitor in Sunland, formerly his home.

A monkey has been added to the pets at the Rice confectionery store opposite Monte Vista park. Mrs. Rice recently bought a young one in Los Angeles and has it on exhibition.

Mrs. Van West is expecting to entertain her daughter, Mrs. Lurley Jenkins of Los Angeles this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kirchner of Simi visited Sunland a few days ago.

Cubans are abandoning primitive methods of farming and are using modern American implements.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK,, Dec. 20.—This city faces the somewhat novel problem of having its schools secede to the Los Angeles school district. Petitions seeking this end will be circulated at once by a committee comprising C. W. Anderson, C. H. Kline, Dr. A. E. W. Yale, Grover Ketchum and P. M. Anderson. This committee was recently appointed by a gathering of citizens, to consider ways and means of lowering taxes. The action to petition for withdrawal from the Burbank school district was taken following a conference with Duncan Forsythe, president of the school board; Mrs. Homer Jones, clerk of the board; and J. J. King, a member.

The committee advances the argument that the Burbank school rate is $2.05. The Los Angeles school rate is $1.39, a difference of 66 cents. It is maintained by the committee that the present rate in Burbank, with the addition which will necessarily come following the sale of $240,000 of the $480,000 bonds just voted, will place the rate up alarmingly. They point out that the Los Angeles school district has lately voted $35,000,000 in bonds to cover this year and the two following years, and so the rate for this period will be no higher than at present.

A. S. Diss, who has been in Lindsey, in charge of a packing house, has completed the season's work and will spend the Christmas holidays here with his mother, Mrs. B. Y. Diss, of 427 Orange Grove avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gunnarson, accompanied by Mr. Gunnarson's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gunnarson, of San Francisco, are in the Imperial valley, where they will spend a few days on a pleasure trip.

ufacturing plant, makers of automobile ice boxes. This concern has one of the best equipped plants in Southern California and turns out large quantities of refrigerators that require no ice, being kept cold by the ammoniabrine process used in cold storage plants and large market ice boxes. Adjoining this is a plant for the manufacture of street intersection flasher signals, many of which are now in use on Glendale streets

One of the latest plants to open is the garage and machine shop owned by Frank Eck, which is one of the largest machine shops in Glendale. Adjoining is the paint shop which will open the first of the year under the management of F. A. Jacobs and E. G. Turner. This plant is located at 537-539 West Garfield street. In addition there are several other manufacturing plants in this district.

Among Mr. Wilson's deals the past week were the corner of San Fernando road and Los Angeles street sold to Bors & Holleran, Los Angeles investors, for $14,000, 50x100; 512 West Windsor street sold to Frank Wheat, consideration, $5,000; 516-18 West Windsor road sold to W. Barbee, consideration, $5,000. Mr. Wilson himself purchased the 5-acre tract on Parkdale avenue near the Southern Pacific from Miss Hettie Reese at a consideration of $25,000. This will be laid out and improved by Mr. Wilson for industrial property.

ice—then, first cost would be the correct basis on which to purchase. But it is beyond question that quality varies, otherwise all the higher priced articles would remain unsold.

"The true value of an article is ascertained by considering its cost in connection with its service rendered. Actual results are what count. The Bentley record—many years of satisfactory service to the contractor, carpenter and homebuilder. The Bentley sales policy—the customer must be satisfied before the sale is completed.

"There is no question but that quality and service form the basis upon which purchases are made by those who desire the most for their investment. And known quality and known service, such as have been established for all merchandise sold by Bentley Lumber Co., enable home builders to buy their building material merchandise at the right price."

a reputation for inferior construction methods invariably fail of admittance.

While not all good contractors are members of the exchange, a majority thereof are, and in time it is confidently expected that all eligible will be. Already prospective builders are asking contractors whether they are members of the exchange, and other things being equal, the exchange member gets the preference, for the public has long since learned to know that members of the exchange can be depended upon to render a perfect service at minimum costs, and that material and labor charges against the job are paid for resulting in the completed home being delivered to the owner free from liens of every kind.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

While Glendale and Southern California basked in the sunshine the east and middle west the last forty-eight hours have been covered with snow and sleet. Transcontinental wires were down many hours yesterday and all business delayed.

However, The Glendale Evening News served with reports by International News Service and Consolidated Press Association, as well as other services, was able to give its readers the latest when the wires were at their worst. International News Service resorts to the radio, it might be mentioned, to show the extraordinary efforts made to be FIRST with the LATEST.

The cold snap, which was apparent on the coast the middle of the week, developed into a heavy storm as it moved from Denver to Chicago and on to the Atlantic coast. Much suffering is indicated by meagre reports from sections isolated by the elements.

An interesting sidelight on Chinese philosophy was gained by the writer in listening to an address by the president of the Los Angeles China club last evening.

In order for the Oriental to get revenge he does not go out and kill his enemy. Instead, he kills himself, the speaker stated, and added, "It works, because there is nothing more feared by the Chinese than the spirits of those who have died."

Americans fear the "spirits" which they drink now, one might facetiously add, after having heard "scoffiaws" discussing the after effects of certain brands of bootleg.

And right well may they live in fear and trembling for the number of amateur distillers is increasing. They know nothing about chemical reactions and being lawbreakers they care less.

Preparedness is a question for wise men to consider. Peace is to be sought, but how many Americans realize that Russia and China and Japan are becoming literally "armed camps?" They have no intention of attacking America, but they are capable of starting a world war in the Orient with which the police power of America and England could not cope, much less defend their own interests.

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, Dec. 20.—Tonight the members of the Angelus Protective association will give a dance in the Verdugo City auditorium of the Fowler building, Honolulu and Los Angeles avenues. Special refreshments have been prepared by members of the Women's club, who will have charge of the tables where home made cakes, candies, punch and coffee will be served.

The best music has been procured, being the Sciots' band of Glendale. Proceeds of the affair will go to buy equipment for the fire fighters of La Crescenta valley.

Emil Busch, chicken expert, has been notified of his appointment as postmaster of the new Verdugo City post office which will be placed in the center store of the Fowler building. Mr. Busch mailed his bonds back via airplane mail. His wife, Mrs. E. Busch, will act as assistant postmistress. It is expected, if present efforts are successful, that Verdugo City will become the distributing point for all rural routes of the upper valley.

The first fire hydrant to be installed in the La Crescenta valley is the one at Young's oil station which will be tested out in a day or so with the new Stutz fire engine.

New Members Added To State Realty Boards

become realtors. Every ethical dealer will eventually become a realtor. The California Real Estate association will continue its work of enrolling every ethical real estate broker until the entire state has come under the influence of organization.

National Body Helps

"In this great work the state officers have the co-operation of the national officers. The real estate business is to become most thoroughly organized, and through the influence of the state and national organizations co-operating with the local boards, the service of organization will be at the disposal of the property interests of California.

"This year we are leading a state-wide movement for home owning, and are taking up in real earnest the investigation of taxation, and its direct and indirect influence on investment in real estate.

"State officers believe that California is to have its greatest state development in the next five years. The part that realtors play in this constructive activity will be widespread for there are now more than one hundred real estate boards in California."

On Monday afternoon the children of the upper classes will meet at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Wattel on West Montrose avenue to make paper cornucopias for Christmas candies for the school. A play is also being prepared by the children and will be presented to the public after Christmas.

The gift of altar linens to the church has arrived in time to be used at the Christmas service on Christmas morning in the new church. This would be the first service and is being eagerly anticipated by the members of the congregation. Mrs. G. Haskell of Pasadena is the donator of the linens, having had them embroidered in China for this purpose. Sunday morning regular services will be held in the school building at 10:45 o'clock.

At night the program will include a tree for the Sunday school children and their friends. Rev. J. A. McLothian will have charge of the preaching services as Rev. Kelso, the pastor of the church, is still suffering with his eyes.

Mrs. M. Moog is the house guest of Mrs. Anna Aiken who will be her hostess until Mrs. Moog recovers her eyesight. Specialists who are treating the case hold out hopes for the recovery of Mrs. Moog's sight, which left her suddenly a short time ago. Mrs. Moog, who has been a member of the Women's club and other valley organizations for the past year, has the sympathy of the valley in her present affliction.

Members of the La Crescenta school board, who attended the meeting on school matters in Glendale, were C. E. Culberson, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Reinhard, and Mrs. C. W. Angier, president of the La Crescenta Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. Reinhard was present as the Montrose representative of the Parent-Teacher association, being president of the organization.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Dec. 20.—With completion of the alterations now under way at the City Hall, the building, electrical and plumbing departments will be removed to the mezzanine floor, announces Mrs. J. C. Reiter, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The alterations will be completed before the first of the year, she states.

This will give the police department much additional space and will greatly facilitate their business, states Captain J. J. Mart, in charge of the division.

Mrs. Haynes, proprietor of a store on York boulevard, warns merchants of this district to be on their guard against shoplifters. Recently five articles were stolen from her store, she states.

Other recent outbursts of crime in the Eagle Rock section includes the bold, daylight robbery of the home of Mrs. Williamson, 5216 Townsend avenue, the articles taken including a saxophone valued at $165, a diamond ring worth $150 and silverware to the value of $50.

Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Stockwell who have moved into their new home at the corner of Addison Way and Maywood avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Louis Herzog at dinner on Wednesday evening last.

Harry Nielson, the well known pianist and teacher, has returned to his home on Eagle Rock boulevard from a Los Angeles hospital where he successfully underwent an operation.

Miss Lela Johnson of Ridge View avenue, who fell on her porch recently, breaking her arm, is recuperating.

Mrs. A. Besse and family were recently guests in Pasadena of Miss Bernice de Low.
